

In Celebration of its 25th Anniversary
The National Cryptologic Museum Presents:
CODES ARE CRIMINAL

September 19, 2018
1 p.m. – 2:30 p.m.

National Cryptologic Museum
8289 Colony Seven Road
Annapolis Junction, MD 20701

Criminals have been baffling law enforcement officers with secret codes and encryptions...and getting away with their crimes...for hundreds of years. Today, experts at the Federal Bureau of Investigation are using their cryptologic skills to catch criminals behind the codes. Come to this exciting presentation and learn how. Real crimes! Real cases!

REGISTER TODAY AT HTTP://BIT.LY/NCM-CODESARECRIMINAL

SPEAKERS:

John F. Fox, Jr., has been the FBI Historian since 2003. He holds a PhD in modern American history from the University of New Hampshire and a masters degree in political science from Boston College. His articles have appeared in journals, the FBI's website, and other venues. He has contributed chapters in several books and co-wrote The FBI: A Centennial History, published in 2008. Dr. Fox has been involved in several cooperative museum projects, including the temporary exhibit on the FBI and the media that was on display at the Newseum from June 2008 to June 2016. He has appeared in documentaries in the U.S. and Europe, on C-Span, CBS Sunday News, CNN, and Turner Classic Movies.

Daniel Olson is the Unit Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Cryptanalysis & Racketeering Records Unit at the FBI Laboratory in Quantico, Virginia. He served as an intelligence analyst and cryptanalyst in the U.S. Army and was assigned to an electronic warfare company during operation Desert Shield/Storm. He later provided intelligence support to the Drug Enforcement Administration and transferred to the FBI as a cryptanalyst. Mr. Olson has worked in the decryption of criminal codes and ciphers involving domestic and international terrorists, violent criminals, drug traffickers, street and prison gangs, and organized crime. He is a recognized expert in cryptology in federal and state courts throughout the United States and has been featured on History Channel, Court TV, CNN, and NBC Nightly News. Mr. Olson holds a bachelors degree in criminology from St. Leo College in Florida and a masters in forensic science from George Washington University in Washington, D.C.